Murder in a Barroom on the Mulberry Bend.

"English Jack" Stricken Dead by Sailor Burns's Big Fist.

The Murderer in Custody, but Still Grossly Intoxicated.

Mulberry Bend added another to its long record of tragedies this morning when William Burns, a sailor, forty-five years old, in a fight with an habitue of the Bend known only as " English Jack " over some drinks in Anstreet, felled " Jack" to the floor with a blow of his fist, from the effects of which the stricken man died instantly. The tragedy occurred at 9.30 o'clock this morning, and although the usual large and gathered in Quirnino's place, each witness offered a different version of the affair. Burns, who was arrested by Detectives Schirmer and Price, of the Elizabeth street sound, half an hour after the affair, told this

"I then hit him back, and he fell to the foor and didn't get up. I hit only once." Burns was staggering around when he was taken to the station-house, and it was plain that he had no clear recollection of the row.

A squad of officers was sent to Quirnino's Similar annexation of territory is conplace to corral all the witnesses, and they took these men into custody: Otto Lipier, E. L. Pflueger, Louis Contiano and Jim Quir-nimo, the latter Antonio Quirnino's brother and barteneer in the saloon.

"The witnesses told a series of stories, but all agreed that "English Jack" was the ag-greesor in the battle. Most of them said that when Surns struck "Jack" the latter's head struck the foot-rail which runs along the front of the bar near the floor, and that he never moved afterwards. Further, they said Burns continued to assault "Jack" after he was prestrate and unconscious on the floor. Burns was taken before Police Justice Mo-Mahon, sitting in Special Sessions, and he was remanded until this afternoon when he will be turned over to the custody of the Coroner. The witnesses were all held at the Elizabeth street station-house.
